Fran Jay

Effie Francis Louise Carr was born at the Cobourg General Hospital on December 12, 1942, to Dave & Gertrude Carr. "Fran" was the middle child of three. Her siblings were Margaret and David. Fran's organizational skills were in her blood. In 1963, her Dad (a local barber) risked the very roof over his head by mortgaging his home to help fund Cobourg's very first Highland Games. It was so successful that it has been an annual event ever since. The family even boarded Donald Jackson, a prominent Canadian figure skater (1962 World Champion, four-time Canadian national champion, and 1960 Olympic bronze medalist), in their home.

Fran married Ron Jay on October 26, 1963. They had to have an October wedding so it didn't interfere with her parent's Highland Games preparation. Ron was very involved in baseball and softball, locally, as a player and executive member. Fran became interested and started to become involved. She joined the Cobourg Baseball Association executive and volunteered in many ways. She worked hand-in-hand with Liz Basinger, booking hotels and other things for incoming teams. She also volunteered at the canteen. She was a key organizer of the popular Kool-Aid Tournament. Fran and Ron helped look after the umpires. They would put on a meal for the umpires, consisting of buns, cold meat, etc. One time, at a Blue Jay's game, Fran and Ron were featured on the jumbo-tron in recognition of their contributions to baseball and were referred to as "Mr. & Mrs. Blue Jay from Cobourg". There was also a story about it featured on the radio. The couple attended annual OBA (Ontario Baseball Association) Conventions together. Ron was a voting member but Fran accompanied him to all sessions. She enjoyed the networking, meeting people, and she learned a lot about baseball and the OBA along the way. She enjoyed the "nickle a beer" evening socials at these events and made many friends and contacts. Although she never played sports herself, her involvement in baseball stimulated her commitment to athletic administration. In 1987, she won the "Curtis Products Award" for the person to have contributed the most to the Cobourg Baseball Association.

Fran and Ron had two children, Brian and Brenda. Brian played hockey and Brenda always tagged along. When Brenda was old enough to play, in Cobourg, she wasn't allowed to play with the boys and there was no girls team, and so began Fran's legacy as an advocate for girl's hockey, in Cobourg and beyond. The first season, she had 13 players. The second season, she had 2 junior teams and the third season she had to shuffle girls around to fit in age brackets. Although she didn't start girl's hockey in Cobourg, she spearheaded the United Counties Hockey League, which was later called the Lakeshore League, and provided girls teams a chance to play against other towns. She worked with many other volunteers throughout the years including Rosie Bateman, Reg Stevenson, Ken Pitre, Max Holland, Wayne Greer, Liz Basinger, Donna Cole, Paul Millard, Kathy Pearson, and more, all who were committed to making the girls game better. She was so committed to girls hockey that she changed her position at General Foods to one that allowed her the flexibility to scoot back and forth to the arena during breaks. She was good at recruiting coaches and players into the program, too. For example, she convinced Max Holland to move from coaching the boys novice to the girls novice "Kinnette Kittens" because she recognized that he was good at getting them to play aggressively, while establishing great coach/player relationships. He continued to coach girl's hockey, at all levels, into his 70's.

Starting in 1993, the girls were a part of the Cobourg Community Hockey League (CCHL), until 2006 when the West Northumberland Girl's Hockey Association (WNGHA) was formed. In 1982, Fran became the first ever Girl's Governor on the CCHL executive & held the position for an extended period of time. She spearheaded the CCHL's annual equipment swap, which eventually became a fundraiser for young female players. Over the years, she spearheaded and/or assisted with many other fundraisers to benefit the girls.

Fran organized many hockey tournaments and special events, which was a lot of work and very time-consuming. Fran was a strong advocate for the girls and got into lots of arguments fighting for equity in the sport. She became a Life Member of the Cobourg Community Hockey League in recognition for her contributions. Eventually, Fran joined the Ontario Women's Hockey Association (OWHA) executive as Regional Director. She was an OWHA Board member from 1993-1999. She attended monthly meetings, coordinated events, and dealt with issues within this OWHA region. She was team liaison for international teams and organized the 1997 & 1998 Senior AAA Provincial Championships that were held in Cobourg. Senior AAA was the highest level of women's hockey at the time and included Olympians such as Cassie Campbell, Vicky Sonohara, Karen Nystrom, Lori Dupuis, and future Hockey Hall of Fame inductees Angela James & Geraldine Heaney, & Jayna Hefford. She also helped to organize the 1997 Women's World Championships, held in Kitchener. She also was involved in the Olympic women's team, which was a thrilling accomplishment for her.

Fran managed many Cobourg teams throughout the years. When Fran was with the midgets, she convinced Ken Pitre to allow the girls to play exhibition games against the boys house league teams, who were surprised at how good the girls were. The boys liked it because it gave them more ice time and the girls enjoyed the competition. It was a good thing for everyone. Fran won a Provincial Championship with the midgets, as the team's Executive Officer. Wayne Greer believes this was the first girls' team to win a Provincial Championship and he believes it never would have happened without Fran's commitment to girl's/women's hockey. In 1997, she started up a Cobourg women's rep team so that Brenda, now an adult, could still play competitive hockey, as there was no women's team in the area. Since then, that Cobourg team has won many provincial medals including 7 provincial championships, one of which Fran herself was a part of.

Brenda started a Girl's Summer Hockey program. Fran helped her sometimes. One summer, Fran arranged for an Olympian to come out on the ice with the girls. She brought her World Championship medal and the girls were thrilled. Fran took her out to lunch afterwards.

Wayne Greer interacted with Fran on the hockey scene for over 10 years, starting in 1991. In his first year as a coach (atom), Fran contributed significantly in making sure each of the 6 teams were staffed properly and that every girl signing up to play had a team. Wayne reflected on Fran's contributions: "Through the 90's all girls teams travelled as we did not have sufficient numbers for house leagues. Fran was critical in balancing off team numbers which met sometimes good 2nd year players were moved up to help the numbers on both age groups. Not an easy task but Fran consulted with the coaches and parents and always found a way to keep a player in the girl's division if the player wanted a place. Fran supported all players. While the Girls division was a part of the CCHL Fran continually worked on obtaining reasonable ice times for the division. This was not easy, but she was well respected by the CCHL Executive and her relentless efforts allowed the girls division to grow year to year. Fran was always a great source of information regarding the OWHA and any questions or concerns around rules would result in an informed answer from Fran. She kept us all in line! Fran left the Girls Division Governor post to take on an executive role with the OWHA later in the 90's during which she was a supporter for the province, although she followed Cobourg no matter what she was doing. It is great to see the growth in girls/women's hockey in Northumberland and, in my opinion, Frans' contributions were tremendous."

In 1990, she announced her retirement from the CCHL scene, after many years of championing girls' hockey in Cobourg. She was recognized locally and at the Provincial level for her contributions. However, due to her outgoing and organizational nature, post-retirement she continued to contribute throughout her life, including sitting on the OWHA board of directors for 6 years.

Fran passed away in 2014 after a battle with cancer. She gave freely of herself to bring equality to girl's hockey. She was always willing to stand up and fight when circumstances dictated. Fran Jay was the ultimate builder for female hockey in Cobourg and throughout Ontario.

Fran Jay

Girls just want to have fun

She can't skate, but it hasn't put a damper on nine-years as governor of Cobourg girls' hockey.

Fran Jay started her career at the Cobourg arena with her kids. Her son Brian caught the hockey bug first, closely followed by her daughter Brenda.

Then Brenda had to go to Baltimore to play because at the time there weren't any girls' teams in Cobourg. Females were not allowed to play on the boys' teams. Mrs. Jay decided to try to get things going in Cobourg again.

"I had ulcers all summer thinking about it," she laughs. The first year she had 13 players. Next season, she had two junior teams. And the third year, she began to have to shuffle kids around to fit age brackets.

This year, Mrs. Jay has five teams and seven hours of ice time.

"The way I see it, hockey should be competitive but recreational. I love to see the girls sitting together in the locker room or sharing the ketchup at McDonald's, laughing and having fun. I think they should be a team on and off the ice, and do other stuff together. I hate to see parents sitting off to the side, not joining in."

"Most parents don't realize how much time and effort the executive puts in. Last weekend we had a tournament and we worked from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Then because we couldn't get any parent volunteers for our Saturday night bingo, (husband) Ron and I went up there and worked until 1:30 a.m."

"Sunday I was beat!" Some of the red tape in the world of hockey is concerned with girls playing boys, or joining boys' teams, says Mrs. Jay.

"I'm not crazy about them playing boys or joining boys' teams, but it's okay if it gets them hooked and keeps them home. We're not out to show up the boys or beat them, but the girls deserve to play."

Mrs. Jay says she remembers when her daughter went to hockey summer school and went to the arena wearing her equipment because she had to play with the boys.

"One of the coaches couldn't figure out why she was hanging around in the hall and not in the locker room with the boys. Then she took off her helmet and shook out her hair."

Mrs. Jay says she's blessed with good coaches this year. But boys hockey, beware. She says she's determined to steal Max Holland from his boys' novice team for her Kinnette Kittens. He's already assisting with the team, but she wants him full-time.

"He gets them (the girls) working more aggressively, really getting into the corners."

And about coaching in general, Mrs. Jay says although she loves the girls to win their games, "it takes a lot of coaching to make the kids good losers. I just like to see the girls play as hard as they can."

But everything is balanced. She says she likes to watch the parents sitting on the edge of their seats, eyes fixed on their kids. And at the executive meetings, she seems to have earned somewhat of a reputation. She fights for her girls. She giggles and says past president

Harry Ieschke now just sighs and says they (the executive) might as well give her her own way rather than listen to her complain.

She also likes the year-end banquet in April.

"I love to see the girls looking like females. They've looked so big all year in their hockey equipment, sometimes you hardly know them."

"Hockey is great for the girls. We've never not had a girl show up because of some sort of problem (with the police). It really keeps them off the street."

Mrs. Jay produces a calendar she says only she can understand. Almost every day is crammed with team names and times.

"You know, every year I think I'll get out of this but then I see those cute faces all over town, saying 'Hi Mrs. Jay.' Sometimes I can't even remember their names. By this time of year, you're really worn out. And you have to have an understanding family. My husband Ron says the phone is never for him."

"Well," Mrs. Jay smiles after 45-minutes of sitting still, "I've got to go. I've got to drop some things off at the rink before I go into work."

On behalf of Cobourg Council and our community I extend our appreciation for the fine job you did in handling the arrangements to host the Ontario Women's "AAA" Provincial Championships.

Jays flying high

Name a household word in local sport

By Jim Den Hollander
 Staff Writer

COBOURG — If someone told Fran Jay 20 years ago, the positions she would hold in both baseball and women's hockey circles...she surely would have laughed.

Both Fran and Ron Jay are household names for just about anybody in this area now that has any involvement with either baseball or women's hockey.

I personally relished a chance to have a brief sit down with the local couple who have left their mark on local sports. I went to their home early on a recent Saturday morning, and left four hours and two pots of coffee later.

Actually, the only reason one of the most fun interviews I have ever done didn't go into the late afternoon was because I had another commitment which I literally delayed until the last minute due to the friendly conversation.

Ron grew up in Port Hope and Fran is from Cobourg.

When asked how they first met, the both smile and recall their first meeting, a blind date.

"It was through a friend of his and a friend of mine," recalls Fran, and they obviously hit it off, getting married in 1963.

As a youngster, Ron did the regular boys sports activities, hockey and baseball.

He remembers giving up hockey at the age of 12 saying "I could see the writing on the wall. I was small, less than average height."

However Ron continued to play baseball right up to the intermediate level with the Port Hope Ontarios at Town Park.

In high school, Ron says he played regular lunchtime intramurals but couldn't join any of the school teams as he worked after school every day making bicycle deliveries for Ballets Ladies Wear, a store in Port Hope.

Meanwhile, Fran took part in figure skating with the Cobourg club, but gave that up after having her appendix removed at age 12.

After meeting, Ron continued to play with the Ontarios under the tutelage of Port Hope coaching legend Len "Roar" Wakely.

As popular a name as Wakely is in Port Hope sports

now, it must have been even more then as Ron recalls, "In one game, eight out of the nine players on the field were Wakelys."

Already Ron was getting the coaching bug as well, getting his first experience behind the bench at age 18 when he helped Nels Hodgson coach a bantam team which included his younger brother Keith.

Ron continued to coach with Hodgson up to Keith's juvenile season when they won the all-Ontario championship. Paul Torbenche who would later go on to a professional hockey career was a member of that provincial championship team.

Meanwhile, Ron continued to play as well, and Fran went to his baseball games at Town Park along with his softball fixtures at the old Port Hope beach ball yard.

Fran says she went to the game "only because of the fact, I went or I did nothing."

Ron began his umpiring around the same time as his coaching but remembers "it was mostly learn as you go umpiring."

Later, Grant and Arnold Wade became instrumental in putting together the Lakeshore Umpires Association in the mid 60's says Ron.

Then, after moving to Cobourg in 1964, Ron started to get involved in the Cobourg Baseball Association which was started at that time by George Spalding.

"I started getting involved," remembers Ron adding, "Clarke Sommerville was the head of umpires."

Later, when their son, Brian started to play ball, Ron and Fran became even more involved with the local ball group. While Ron was becoming more as a male involved with the umpiring side, Fran began helping with the baseball canteen.

Liz Basinger was in charge of the canteen and asked Fran "Do you want to help with this."

In those days, Ron remembers the minor baseball was run by a small group of people and with a small budget.

"In those days, we took the balls home, cleaned them up and dried them off."

Later Brian became involved in the umpiring side as well, but he didn't get really interested until going away to College. Brian now lives in Ottawa but often comes home to help out at weekend tournaments with his parents.

Fran's involvement in women's hockey came through her daughter Brenda.

Fran says Brenda began in figure skating, but attended all of her older brother's games and became interested in playing.

Eventually, Fran says they began taking Brenda to Baltimore to play on a girls team.

"There were a lot from Cobourg going out there," says Fran adding they eventually approached Cobourg about starting a girls team.

As a result, Fran became the first ever CCHL Girls' Governor in 1982.

Fran says the OWHA President was Doug Nichols and "I drove him nuts complaining," and he eventually played a role in talking her into becoming a Regional Director.

Fran is still heavily involved as a Regional Director and her biggest contribution may be the new rating system introduced a few years back, similar to that used by the Ontario Baseball Association.

Ron established himself as an umpire in chief for Cobourg eventually and was also the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association President for a spell. In recent years, Ron has stepped back from ball due to work commitments.

He counts as one of his favourite accomplishments, a pee-wee B all-Ontario championship team he coached with good friend Ken Pettie in the late 80's.

"I didn't realize what a good team we had until we played at a Clarkson tournament," remembers Ron adding "I felt proud of that, for a town of this size, winning a 'B' championship is as good as you can get."

"We beat teams that were better than us — we out-smarted them."

For Fran, her biggest accomplishments have all come in the past couple of years.

Hosting the Senior

Women's AAA tournament in Cobourg in both 1997 and 1998 is a coup for the town. Fran says she has pushed them to move that tournament to a small town for years.

Also, playing a part in the Women's World Championships last year in Kitchener was a thrill for Jay.

Jay says the Olympic women's team was also a thrilling accomplishment and to top it all off she is now enjoying retirement since the fall.

But no matter what they have accomplished in the world of sports, none can match the announcement they made just a few short weeks ago.

"They will now start with a new generation as their son Brian and his wife recently gave birth to a baby girl."

When talk of their first grandchild comes up, Fran's face lights up.

"That's the best news," beams Fran — "We've been waiting a long time," adds Ron.
