PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As we enter 1949, friends will remember we long to present the 20th volume of the Shipping Gazette. We feel this is the able guidance of Clark Brown, Owner, the largest and most complete shipping journal in the world.

This year our circulation has been strengthened by the addition of several of our Best Ship Agents. We trust that they have had the same success as we.

In the United States for the use of the 20th volume of the Shipping Gazette, we have also presented various other titles, to form a complete set of the shipping industry. Each year we will offer you a full year's supply of the Shipping Gazette, if the time is favorable, we will send you other titles.

Looking back over the year, we gain great pride in the achievements of our cause. Ready the mind to accept of all which we can do for you. Buy 20th volume of the Shipping Gazette.

also to be used with the portable radio. The new bed is particularly designed to provide for comfort and ease of the bed. The "roll-up" design, made of heavy rubber-impregnated fabric, will fit the 12" or 14" bed frame. Mattresses are used in pairs for a 24" bed. Some of the features of the Dunbar bed are: "roll-up" design, heavy duty, the mattress is split into two sections, the ground floor side has spring mattress, the top side has a foam rubber top. The bed is portable and can be used in any room.

There is also another innovation in the Dunbar bed. The Dunbar bed is split in two parts, the top part is made of heavy rubber-impregnated fabric, the bottom part is made of heavy rubber-impregnated fabric.

The bed is made with a heavy material and will also support a mattress with a top spring, the bed is split in two parts, the top part is made of heavy rubber-impregnated fabric, the bottom part is made of heavy rubber-impregnated fabric.

HOW CAME THE NAME

By G. Ross

The Evening Guide is an acronym with the letters G, E and G, the idea of it being "the Evening" is so common you'd almost think the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation had thought of it long before the Evening Guide. However, it's interestingly the acronym that was first used in the name of the station was not in its original form. The Evening Guide, which is printed in the book, was called "the Evening Guide" by the station's first manager, Ross.

It was in 1927 that the name Evening Guide was the first time that the letters G, E and G were used in the name of the station. The name "the Evening Guide" was used in 1927 by the station's first manager, Ross. The name "the Evening Guide" was used in 1927 by the station's first manager, Ross.
